As we part, God speed to you!

CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1949, we started our first year in Charlton Junior High School with Miss Morrison, as our teacher. There was an enrollment of forty-six pupils, twenty-nine girls and twelve boys. However, we lost five pupils namely, Merle Langway, Lorraine Pelletier, Michael Nardon, Gordon Snow, and George Jones which brought our enrollment down to forty-one.

The Class officers elected were: President-David Dam; Vice-President-Constance Lavigne; Secretary-Arlene Brown; and Treasurer-Elizabeth Piche.

Our Honor Roll students were: William Benoit, Fay Carleton, Barbara Cierpich, Dorothy Eppley, Wilbur Johnson, Constance Lavigne, and Beverly Sargent.

Five members of our class took part in the Prize Speaking Contest. There were Fay Carleton, David Dam, Beverly Sargent, Madeline Soucy, and Raymond Williams.

In October we moved from the old room downstairs now known as the Agriculture room into a room in the new wing.

In September, 1950, we started our second year in Junior High School with thirty-nine pupils, eleven boys and twenty-eight girls, but six students: Paul Nichols, Margaret Bond, Robert Clark, William Bushey, Theresa Drake, and Donald Piche left us. Later Janet Germain, Anne Shangele, Nancy Reiser and John Bougourd joined our group. Under the direction of Mrs. Madaus, we again settled down for a year of study.

Our class officers were: President-Constance Lavigne; Vice-President-Patricia Roussell; Secretary-Arlene Brown; and Treasurer-Madeline Soucy.

Our Honor Roll students were: William Benoit, Fay Carleton, Barbara Cierpich, Dorothy Eppley, Wilbur Johnson, Constance Lavigne and Beverly Sargent.

We were sorry to lose one of our members, Anne Shangle, who moved out West.

Thus ended our second and last year in Charlton Junior High School.

In September, 1951, we started our Freshman year in Charlton High School with thirty-five pupils. But, as everyone knows, a class grows smaller. During this year, we lost four pupils, namely Philip Allen, Barbara Snow, Marion Griswold and Gloria Tower. Later we gained one new member, Lucille Schwartz. In that year, Mrs. Ziemski was our supervisor.

Our Honor Roll students were: Fay Carleton, Barbara Cierpich, Dorothy Eppley, Wilbur Johnson, Constance Lavigne and Beverley Sargent.

Our class officers for the year were: President-Beverly Sargent; Vice-President-William Benoit; Secretary-John Bougourd; and Treasurer-Mary Lou Pike.

In September, 1952, we began our Sophomore year under the direction of Mrs. Fiske. Now we had thirty-one pupils but soon lost some. Those who left us were: Constance Poulin, Hazel Burlingame, Genevieve White and Paul Fredette.

Our class officers elected for this year were: President-Constance Lavigne; Vice-President-Mary Lou Pike; Treasurer-Wilbur Johnson and Secretary-Beverly Sargent.

This year we made a very good profit with our Sophomore Hop and also won the Magazine Contest, two sources of revenue which helped our Treasury considerably.

Our Honor Roll students for this year were: William Benoit, Fay Carleton Barbara Cierpich, Maureen Colby, David Dam, Dorothy Eppley, Grace Fitts, Wilbur Johnson, Constance Lavigne, Mary Lou Pike, Patricia Rousell, and Beverly Sargent.

In September, 1953, we started our Junior year with twenty-six pupils with Mrs. Hammond as our beloved supervisor. We welcomed a former classmate, Nancy Reiser. We were sorry to lose two of our members namely, Nancy Reiser and John Bougurd later in the year.

Our class officers for this year were: President-William Benoit; Vice-President-Paul Riopel; Secretary-Constance Lavigne; Treasurer-Mary Lou Pike.

We sold candy to add money to our fund for the Junior Prom.

Our annual Junior Prom was presented on May 9, with Perry Conte's Orchestra furnishing the music. The town hall was beautifully decorated in the class colors, blue, yellow, and white, with a Mexican design. A revolving crystal ball was a feature that made the decorations and the hall twice as beautiful.

Finally our class rings arrived and that was when we realized we had only one more year at Charlton High.

We ended our Junior year with sadness, but, still looking forward eagerly to the opening of school when we would start our final-and our best year in Charlton High School.

September finally came and we were back to Charlton High School to complete our last year under our beloved supervisor, Mrs. Hammond. We now had twenty-six pupils and later gained two more, namely, James O'Leary and Leo Sullivan who are veterans. We now have a total of twenty-eight.

Our class officers are: President-Paul Riopel; Vice-President-Mary Lou Pike; Secretary-Janet Germain; and Treasurer-Betty Piche.

We began our many activities with our Senior Play, which was "Janey's One-Track Mind." Leading parts went to Beverly Sargent, David Dam, Mary Lou Pike, Wilbur Johnson, Janet Germain, William Cameron, Arlene Brown, and William Benoit. With the help of Mrs. Fiske, our coach, the play was a great success.

We also raised money for our treasury by two food sales, two paper drives; we sold Christmas cards, and also served a successful supper. We also made a profit by serving lunch at an auction.

Our D.A.R. Representative for this year is Grace Fitts, and our Graduation Speakers are Barbara Cierpich, Constance Lavigne, Beverly Sargent and Wilbur Johnson.

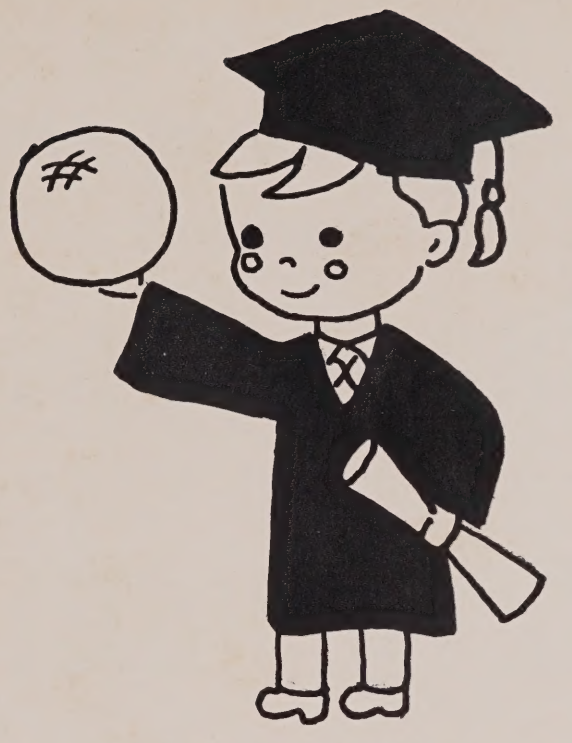
During our February vacation, we went to Washington D. C. for our five-day class trip. The Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Ball; Mr. and Mrs. Gribowski; Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Fiske.

We all had a good time. It was an educational trip, as well as a pleasure trip and we wish to thank Mr. Ewing for helping us raise our Washington trip fund.

People on the Honor Roll at the end of the 3rd ranking period were: Highest Honors: Barbara Cierpich, Grace Fitts and Constance Lavigne. Honor Roll: Fay Carleton, Maureen Colby, David Dam, Dorothy Eppley, Wilbur Johnson, Patricia Roussel, Beverly Sargent and Nancy Shea.

We, the class of "55" will keep our six years at Charlton High School still in our memories. We wish to express our sincere appreciation for all the help and inspiration given to us.

LILLIAN CARRINGTON



CLASS PROPHECY

It has been 10 years since our graduation from Charlton High School and now, on the anniversary of that memorable day, June 9, 1965, we, Dorothy Eppley and Patricia Roussel, started on an important business trip to Washington, D. C. We were the Presidents of the Federal Bank of America in New York City.

On our way to the airport we stopped at the Ann's Hospital to visit one of our employees, who had had an accident. On the way to the room where the sick girl was, we nearly collided with a nurse who was carrying a medicine tray. She was none other than Barbara Cierpich who was now married and the mother of three children. She told us that in the near future she planned to build her own hospital.

After leaving her, we called for a taxi and we were surprised to find the driver to be Kenneth Manning, who had a taxi service consisting of fifteen cabs. On the way to the airport he told us that he had married Janice Bartley and that they were the proud parents of six children. He said that besides the house work Janice also ran a cafeteria by the name of the Blue Moon.

Our husbands met us at the airport and as they walked us towards the plane we met the pilot who turned out to be David Dam. He told us that after he had been discharged from the Air Force he had gotten a job here. Dave called the airline hostess over and she was none other than Madeline Soucy. They told us that they planned to be married, at long last, as soon as Madeline finished her year as a hostess.

As we took our seats in the plane, we found seated next to us William Benoit who was now a general in the Air Force. He said he was going to Washington to see the President at his special request. He said the Air Force was now his life work.

Also on the plane was Fay Carleton, now married She told us she had given up her position as private secretary to be with her husband who had recently been transferred to Washington. With her were her three small sons.

When we arrived in Washington we went straight to the White House to meet the President of the United States who was our own Wilbur Johnson. From him we learned that William Cameron had become the best test pilot in the world. He had just recently broken the light barrier and had won world reknown. While we were there the Secretary of State came to see him. She happened to be none other than Grace Fitts. Grace was still single and liked it that way. When we asked her about Lillian Carrington, she told us that Lillian was married to Donald and that they were running their own farm which was the largest in Massachusetts.

Upon leaving the White House we went to a garage to rent a car. The owner, who was James O'Leary, came out to talk with us. Jim said he owned a whole chain of garages across the United States. From the car we rented we knew he was doing very well.

We checked in at the Continintal Hotel and the owner, our own Mary Lou Pike, gave us the best rooms in the hotel. She said that she was having as much trouble as ever with seniors on class trips. While we were there, the Charlton High Seniors came in with their principal who was now Leo Sullivan.

Of course we had to go shopping where we met our old friend Betty Piche. She now owned the Woolworth Stores. She told us she was married and had five little girls. We asked what was the best movie to see while we were here and Betty told us to see "Love Me Always," starring Arlene Brown. Ethel was nominated the best actress of the year. She still wasn't married but Kenny was still number one on the list. As we left the store we met Miss America of 1965, who was Lucille Schartz. She told us she was still single and was having too much fun to get married right away. She was the same Lucy she had been in school. When we asked about Meridith West we were told she was in Europe. She had gone there for a visit and had liked it so well she decided to stay for several years.

We soon reached the beauty salon which was owned by Nancy Shea. Nancy showed us around and told us that only the rich ladies came here to have their hair done. While we were there, Sylvia Iannicheri came in. She was now married to Joe and they owned some of the largest oil wells in the world. When we asked about Janet Germain we were told she was the world's best costume designer. She had designed all the clothes that Ethel wore in her picture.

As we got to the place where our appointment was to be held, we met Paul Riopel who now owned a ranch in Texas where he raises all the beef that Uncle Sam uses to feed his boys. He told us he was married to Beverly Sargent and they had just become the proud parents of a bouncing baby boy. We also learned from him that Constance Lavigne had become a great violinist and had appeared at Carnegie Hall many times. She was rated among the top violinists of the world.

As we left Paul, we ran into Esther Stevens a[nd] Maureen Colby. We learned that Esther had marri[ed] Alfred and was the proud mother of two sets of twi[ns] boys. As for "Mo," she had a horse farm and raised som[e] of the best race horses in the United States. She was also a great artist and her horse paintings were considered the best.

As we started back to the hotel, we talked over how our classmates had become a success in each his own way and how they were helping to make this a better world in which to live.

A HISTORY OF CHARLTON HIGH SCHOOL 1905 - 1955

In March of 1905, by an almost unanimous vote of the citizens of Charlton, rooms at the Center, left vacant by the removal of officers to Dexter Hall, were reconditioned to serve as a local high school. This was a small two story, white edifice that stood where Dr. Achin's home now is. It was similar in construction to the old district schools.

The first principal was Mr. Perry Howe, assisted by Miss Faith Hills, who later became Mrs. Luther Burlingame. During the winter, the high school gave an exhibition consisting of declamations, music, and wand drills.

The superintendent of schools, Mr. Wallace E. Mason, gave a great deal of credit to Mr. Perry Howe and to Miss Faith Hills for their faithful work in planning and developing a high school curriculum.

In 1907, Mr. Perry Howe, the principal, reported that there was a new schedule of studies for 40 periods per week. Art and music became a part of the curriculum.

In 1908, thirty pupils were enrolled. Charles Thomas, the principal, reported that there was one comprehensive course from which pupils might enter any college or technical school. This year two pupils were graduated.

In 1909, Mr. Herbert Collar, who became principal of the high school, urged the townspeople to erect a new building, but he failed in his efforts. This year's graduates numbered twelve.

In 1910, Mr. Collar, the principal, advocated three courses in the high school: college preparatory, commercial, and industrial. He felt that more practical courses should be given. In this year's class, there were two pupils graduated.

In 1911, when Mr. Frank English became principal, the greatest need was for science equipment and a new building. The enrollment was increasing and the scholarship standard was much higher. Three pupils comprised the senior class.

In 1912, Mr. English reported that greater emphasis was being placed on English and science. He expressed his regrets at the resignation of Mrs. Burlingame, to whom he gave a great deal of credit for the progress of the high school. This year three pupils were graduated.

In 1913, the principal, Mr. English, again urged the people to erect a new building and furnish adequate equipment. He believed that more practical courses must be offered to attract new pupils. Diplomas were awarded to five people.

In 1914, Mr. English reported that many changes had been made in the high school courses, to meet the need of the pupils and the community which was proved of its class of three graduates.

In 1915, Mr. Frank English, who had been principal for five years, resigned and Sylvan B. Genthner became the new principal of Charlton High School. This year a generous gift, to be known as the Phillips' Fund was given for a Household Arts Class. At this time, Miss Florence Putnam, music supervisor, joined the faculty. Miss Putnam has been indefatigably donating much of her time and effort to the development of music in Charlton High School. Alas! No graduates this year!

In 1916, Mr. Genthner reported that there were eight pupils graduated and that there was a great improvement in general school morale. This year Domestic Science was offered for the first time and taught by Mrs. Adaline Genthner.

In 1917, thirty-eight pupils were enrolled, under the new principal, Mr. Frederick A. Carpenter, who strongly urged that an Agricultural and Commercial course be installed. This year graduates numbered five.

In 1918, there were no graduates, so Mrs. Faith Burlingame, who had again joined the faculty, presented an exceptionally fine Junior day entertainment. This year tools were purchased for manual training. Mrs. Grace Hollis, teacher of Domestic Science, joined the faculty this year. Mr. Carpenter urged that the time allowed for music be increased. This was a World War 1 year, and a good deal of time and effort was devoted to Red Cross work and Bond Campaigns.

In June, 1919, seven pupils were graduated. Mr. Carpenter reported that science equipment had been purchased for the laboratory. He also strongly urged the towns-people to provide for a much needed athletic program.

In 1920, Mr. Carpenter continued to plead for a play ground. This year's class consisted of seven pupils. A commercial department was added, and Miss Mary Hurley was elected as its first teacher. The principal asked for the use of the Town Hall for basketball, but his request was denied.

In 1921, Mr. Kenneth Tyler became principal. He reported that the high school enrollment had increased so much that some of the classes had to be held in the Universalist Church, and pupils were obliged to travel from one building to another. Some dances were held during the winter, and Miss Putnam produced a Pilgrim Tercentenary program. This year there were three graduates.

This year 1923, was a red letter year, as the new high school was completed. All grades were, at first, housed in the new edifice. This year, Mrs. Sarah Madaus, a much loved, loyal and efficient teacher of our present high school faculty, entered this new building as a 7th and 8th grade teacher. She has labored long and faithfully for the highest ideals in education and character training. Out of the ten pupils who were graduated this year, seven went on to Normal Schools and colleges. Two new teachers were hired, Miss Ruth Clark, as teacher of English and Miss Emma Gale, as Commercial teacher. She is better known today as Mrs. Emma Hammond. She started teaching commercial subjects in our high school the first year it was built and she has been graciously and most efficiently directing the Commercial Department, with its many extra duties, for the past thirty-two years. The baseball team, coached by the principal, won more than half of the games played this year.

In 1924, Mr. Everett Greene came as Principal of the high school; and Miss Carey as teacher of English. The principal's report discussed the need of an athletic field and told of the first Prize Speaking Contest that was held. This year C. H. S. graduated ten people.

In 1925, Mr. Greene reported that fifteen pupils were to be graduated and that the increased enrollment made the building crowded.

The first annual Senior Play was presented this year, and the Second Prize Speaking contest was held. Both of these activities were to become important annual events in the extra curricular life of our high school.

In 1926, the first six grades of school were removed from our high-school building. Mr. Everett W. Green, who was principal at that time felt that this removal resulted in a better spirit of cooperation at Charlton High School. In this year fourteen pupils were graduated.

During the year of 1927, a new and progressive principal, Mr. Willard Spalding, arrived in Charlton. This year was the first year in which our annual magazine, "The Highlights," was edited by the student body. The graduation class of this year was fourteen pupils. This was also the year that a club program was introduced. The various clubs were as follows: Dramatic, Debating, Foreign Language, Commercial and Handicraft.

In 1928, Mr. Riccio, a teacher of manual training was hired. Under his guidance, the boys made many useful house hold articles. A new club, the History Club, was added this year. This year fifteen pupils were graduated.

In the year of 1929, three new teachers joined the faculty, namely; Miss Emily Manzi, in Grade 7, Miss Ruth Horne, a teacher of English, and Mr. Robert Bruce, a teacher of science. This year sixteen pupils received diplomas.

In the fall of 1930, a new and efficient principal, Mr. H. L. Mushroe, arrived. This was also the year that Miss Mabel Bryant, who is now Mrs. Rodney Fiske, joined the faculty as teacher of English and coach of the Dramatic Club. Office Practice was added to the Commercial Course. This year sixteen pupils were graduated.

In the year of 1931, the enrollment increased beyond that of any previous year. Biology became a required subject for all sophomores, also the Shorthand system was changed to the latest method—Gregg, at the recommendation of Mrs. Hammond. A school mimeograph was purchased for the commercial department. The commercial students, under the guidance of Mrs. Emma Hammond printed their own magazine, "The Highlights," on the new mimeograph machine. Two new clubs, the French Club, and the Honor Society were started. This was also the first year that the Seniors published a Year Book.

The most important event of this year was the fact that the New England College Admission Board granted Specimen Certification privilege to the high school. In June, thirteen pupils went forth with diplomas.

The Year 1932 witnessed an increase in the enrollment and an addition of a Science Club. The big event of this year, through the combined efforts of Mr. Mushroe and Mr. Bruce, was that basketball became a vital part of the Athletic Program. Another high light of this year was that the first Junior Prom, supervised by Mrs. Faith Burlingame, was held. This year's class numbered sixteen graduates.

The year 1933 showed a still greater increase in enrollment. Charlton High was now making a name for herself, as our Debating Club, under the direction of Miss Mabel Bryant, won the Quaboag Valley Debating Championship. This year, Coach Robert Bruce had a championship baseball team. Our science laboratory was moved to the former manual training room, and a new senior room was added. In June 1933, the Massachusetts State Department of Education raised Charlton High School from a B rating to an A rating, and we are proud to have kept this classification. There were fourteen pupils graduated.

In 1934 there were some new curricular changes as the Civic Art Course replaced the General Course; World History replaced Ancient History for sophomores, and another library day was added for special work. During this year, the beloved and efficient Mrs. Faith Hills Burlingame passed away. She was a member of the high school faculty for many years, and much of the credit for the development of our school in its early years, must be given to her. Mr. George Madaus became a regular member of the faculty this year. He had been substituting for Mrs. Burlingame during her illness.

The year 1935 showed an even greater increase in the school's enrollment, and another library days was added. This year, Mrs. Fiske's debators won the permanent possession of the silver cup given by the Quaboag Valley Debate League. This year fourteen pupils were graduated.

The year 1936 brought some changes in the high school curriculum as American History, for the first time was offered in the Junior year, and Problems of Democracy, in the Senior year. Mrs. Fiske' debators and orators won the Massachusetts State Meet, and four of them traveled to Oklahoma City to participate in the National Contest. The Glee Club Pup Concert, directed by Miss Putnam, helped to furnish funds for the Oklahoma trip. Twenty-four high school pupils attended the music festival at Springfield, Mass. The C. H. S. Council sponsored the Annual Play Contests.

In 1937, art, supervised by Miss Merle Wilder, was taught for the first time, two days a week. Mrs. Mabel Fiske was elected Mass. State Chairman of the National Foresnic League; therefore, Charlton High School was host to twenty-two Massachusetts High Schools that participated in the meet. Schools closed at noon, and all teachers in town served as executives and judges for this event. Organizations in town served meals, and various families entertained the guests. The Annual Play Contests were again sponsored. Mr. Mushroe reported the enrollment to be 209, and curriculum to be unchanged, except for the alternation of College preparatory courses. Miss Putnam took four pupils to the Music Festival at Hyannis, Mass. One of Mrs. Fiske's orators was a Mass. State winner and was sent to the National contest held at Jacksonville, Illinois. Twenty-seven pupils were graduated in June.

In 1938, Mr. Joseph R. Burgess, a new and capable superintendent, recommended that Charlton and Sturbridge have a combined newspaper, so "The Bay Path News" was printed by the commercial department of the high school, efficiently supervised by Mrs. Emma Hammond. This year over ninety pupils were studying some form of extra-curricular music with Miss Florence Putnam in charge. In April of this year four of her students went to the New London Music Festival. This year an event occured which affected greatly, the educational status of our high school. Charlton High School was advanced by the New England College Entrance Certificate Board from Specimen College entrance privilege to approve standing. The name of Charlton then appeared on the printed list of the College Boards, and still does. The council sponsored the Annual Play Contest. This year, twenty-one pupils went forth as graduates.

In 1939, the Charlton High School Year Book was dedicated to the memory of the school doctor, Alvin R. Moses, who passed away that October. The high school debators were again Quaboag Valley Champions—this time they were coached by Mr. George Madaus. The Student Council sponsored the Annual Play Contest. This year, the library, as recommended by the Principal, was opened an extra day a week to enable the pupils to do reference work. The track team, coached by Mr. Robert Bruce, won the Brookfield-Charlton meet. Despite the mud, the baseball team did a good job playing outside games. Mr. Bruce's basketball team also won seven games this season. Four music students went to Boston to the Annual Festival. Graduates numbered twenty-three.

In September, 1940, the high school enrollment was the highest so far with 217 pupils. A new Senior room had been added. A comptometer was purchased for the office practice course. Members of the Glee Club sang over station W.O.R.C. Diplomas were presented to eighteen members of the graduating class.

In 1941, Mr. Mushroe reported that American Education Week was again well observed and that courses in First Aid, and Automobile safety were inaugurated. The Annual Play Contests were again sponsored by the council. Six pupils attended the Music Festival at Keene, N.H. Twelve of our debators and orators participated in the Massachusetts State Meet at Hyannis, Mass. this year. The year book was dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Grace Hollis, who passed away in the fall of last year. In June, thirty-three pupils were graduated. This was the largest class, so far, to leave Charlton High School.

In 1942, Charlton High School lost two very efficient and valuable teachers—Mr. George Madaus, teacher of history and successful debating coach, and Mr. Robert Bruce, teacher of science and popular athletic coach. Mr. George Madaus, who had served the school well for nine years and Mr. Bruce, for thirteen years, were replaced by Miss Mary Cashen—teacher of history, and Mr. Richard Headstrom, teacher of science. Mr. Robert Baggs was elected coach of athletics. The play contests were again held, in October. Mr. Mushroe reported that the high school was all out for the War Effort. Clubs were changed to meet war time needs. The High School Victory Corps was established and Physical Fitness became an important part in the program. Twenty-seven pupils were graduated in June.

In 1943, the high school enrollment dropped to 161, a fact which was due, of course, to war conditions. Again the club program was organized around the war effort with First Aid, Red Cross, Scrap Book, Pre-Induction, and Aeronautics Clubs taking place of peace time groups, such as Debating, Good Writers, and Dramatics Clubs. The school won the Minute-Man Flag and the Schools at War Scrap Book, made by the pupils, under the direction of Miss Jeannette Partridge, teacher of art, and Mrs. Mabel Fiske won the Massachusetts Honorable Mention Citation. The Annual Play Contest was again School Graduates. The Treasury of the U. S. sent us a citation for our sale of bonds and stamps known as the Jeep Campaign. Under the Government subsidy plan, the Lunch Counter, ably directed by Mrs. Paul Harris, served a complete hot dinner for 15 cents. Sixteen pupils were graduated this year.

In September of 1944, Charlton High School again lost a valuable and efficient teacher, Miss Emily Manzi, whose strong discipline and sense of humor, had kept grade seven in line during the past fifteen years. This year three teachers joined the high school faculty. Mrs. Horton replaced Miss Manzi, Miss Cashen was replaced by Mr. George Maloney and Mr. Headstrom, by Mr. Eugene Berube. The annual play contest was held. Four of the Pre-Induction training courses were added to the curriculum. In June, 1945, twenty-one pupils graduated.

In September, 1945, Miss Jeanne Blanchet joined the faculty as Grade 7 teacher. Charlton High School, coached by Mr. Robert Baggs, had a wonderful athletic season. The basketball team won the Western Worcester County Championship and again participated in the Clark College tournament, winning the first game in the semi-finals. This year our school won the Good Spoortsmanship Trophy given by the Western Worcester County. Twenty-one students were graduated in June, 1946.

In September of 1946, Miss Claire Berthiaume joined the faculty as 7th grade advisor. The annual Play Contests were held, also the annual Magazine Contest, which had become a popular school activity for more than ten years. Three students, accompanied by Miss Putnam, attended the Music Festival at Brattleboro, Vermont. Again C.H.S. was represented in the Foresnic State Contest held in Ashburnham, by 7 pupils. In June, 1947, twelve students graduated from Charlton High School.

The year 1948, showed a continuing increase in the enrollment of Charlton High School. The annual Play Contests were again sponsored by the Student Council. The Magazine Contest was held again this year. Charlton High School was once again represented in the annual New England Music Festival by four students, who accompanied Miss Putnam to Portland, Maine. The senior class took its annual class trip to New York City. This year nineteen students were graduated.

The fall of 1948, proved that the present high school building was no longer adequate to hold the present enrollment. As a result of a large seventh grade, two classes had to be made. A class of twenty-one students was held in the lower Town Hall. Two new teachers joined the faculty, Mrs. Estelle Ziemski, who replaced Miss Berthiaume in the seventh grade and Mrs. Margaret E. Healey, who taught the seventh grade in the lower Town Hall and Latin. Mrs. Ziemski was coach of the Girls' Basketball team this year. The Annual Play Contests were held again this year, also the Prize Speaking Contest and the Magazine Contest. The Senior Class took its annual Class trip to New York City. The entire high school was again active in the Junior Red Cross. In early spring, construction on the new wings of the high school was begun, as it was voted by the town, to relieve the over-crowded classrooms in the City Grade School as well as the High School. In June, 1949, twenty-three students were graduated.

In late fall of 1949, completion of the new winsg brought many changes at Charlton High School. Grades 7, 8B, and 12 were moved into the right wing, also a new and modern cafeteria was opened to the school, under the supervision of Mrs. Laura Vizard. Grades 4, 5, and 6 were placed in the left wing. An Agriculture Course was offered to the boys under the direction of Mr. E. Lawrence, also the Home Economics Course was offered to the girls, directed by Miss Regina Hill, who later became Mrs. Hoey. Two other new teachers were Miss Mary Morrison, as seventh grade advisor and French teacher, Miss Vera Themistocles, who replaced Mr. Malony, in the ninth grade as teacher of History, also was girls' athletics coach. June, 1950 twenty-eight graduated.

In the year 1951, several teachers were employed as Home Economics teachers, the vacancy left by Mrs. Hoey was first filled by Mrs. Vetterling, later in the year by Mrs. L. Miller and lastly by Mrs. Dorothy Flemming. This year was also the year that Mr. William Ball joined the faculty as 9B advisor and coach of the boys' basketball team, while Mr. Berube coached baseball. Miss Ernestine Lemere joined the faculty as seventh grade advisor to replace Miss Morrison. Miss Jeanne Farr was our new Art supervisor. Twenty-three students were graduated this year.

In the fall of 1951, Charlton High lost a very valuable and well liked teacher, when Mr. Eugene Berube left. He served our high school for seven years as teacher of sciences, also as boys' athletic coach. He was temporarily replaced by Mr. James Butler, later by Mr. Hamel and then by Mr. Clayton Barton. This year, Mrs. Estelle Ziemski rejoined the faculty as teacher of History and ninth grade advisor, to replace Miss Themistocles. Mr. Robert Lucey was employed to replace Mr. Lawrence as Agricultural teacher. Miss Barbara Lavalle joined the faculty as teacher of Home Economics. The senior class took its annual trip to New York City. This year the annual year book was printed by a company instead of the high school students. This enabled us to have more pictures in our year book. The graduates for this year numbered twenty-three. Miss Jeanne Farr was teacher of art.

The year of 1953, showed a continuation of our growing enrollment, with two seventh grade, two eighth grades, and two eleventh grade home rooms. Two new teachers were employed to take care of this increase. Mrs. Helen Stevens, who was a graduate of this high school class of 1919, was advisor of 7B, and Mrs. Eleanor McNamara, advisor of 7A. Miss Enid Holmberg was employed as the teacher of art. Mr. Joseph Gribouski also joined the faculty, as teacher of Agriculture. The Dramatic Club presented its annual three-act play, plus three one-act plays, under the direction of Mrs. Mrs. Fiske. The Annual Music Night was held under the direction of Miss Putnam. The senior class took its annual trip to New York City. In June, twenty-eight pupils were graduated.

In the fall, we started the school term under the direction of a new principal, as Mr. H. L. Mushroe had left after twenty-three years of faithful service. Charlton High School should be very grateful to Mr. Mushroe for much of the remarkable advancement of our school. Mr. Robert S. Ewing became our new principal, and Mr. Ball, our new assistant-principal. The senior class, for the first time in our history, took their class trip to Washington, D. C. Miss Montigny joined the faculty as seventh grade teacher, and Mrs. Vera Bancroft joined the faculty as teacher of Home Economics. The annual Dramatic Club Play and Music Night were again held. The graduation class of this year had thirty-nine students, one of the largest classes to graduate from Charlton High School.

In September, 1954, the largest enrollment of Charlton High was recorded, with 293 students attending. This year also seemed to bring a turmoil in the facutly, as Selective Service took over two of the new teachers, Mr. John Kane, and later Mr. Edmund Pecukonis, who replaced Mr. Kane. Mr. Michael Pizziferri was then elected to fill this vacancy. Miss M. Lantelme was hired to teach French and English. She was replaced by Mr. Paul P. Chassé. Mr. Paul Mitchell was elected to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Ziemski. Two additional teachers were hired—Mr. David Boudreau, advisor in 7-6 and Miss E. O'Donnell, to assist in the Commercial Department. Miss O'Donnell later resigned and Mr. Joseph Loignon was hired to fill the vacancy. The Dramatic Club sent a one-act play to the Massachusetts State Drama Festival held in Gardner, Mass. This play was coached by Mr. Mitchell and we are proud to say that one of our students was awarded as one of the best actors of the event. The High School took part in many activities during this year: Athletics, Clubs, Dances, and several other activities, but one of the biggest was the sponsoring of a Korean child for one year. This was done last year also, through the Save The Children Federation.

The graduation of twenty-eight students in June will terminate the last fifty years of Charlton High School. What the future will bring cannot be determined now, but let us hope that Charlton High will continue the splendid job it has been doing to make our youth a stronger, wiser and loyal citizens to their town, their state, and their country.

ORCHESTRA and GLEE CLUB

The Charlton High School Orchestra presently consists of twelve members who are under the able direction of Miss Florence Putnam, Music Supervisor. There are three violins, four accordians, one guitar, one xylophone, one set of bells, and one piano. They have participated in school assemblies, at the Dramatic Club Play, and Music Night. The group is now preparing for Graduation. Although selections range from folk tunes to classical, the orchestra has reached average achievement because the range of choice is not wide.

The Glee Club meets every Tuesday during the seventh period, also under the direction of Miss Florence Putnam. Mrs. Healy is our accomplished accompanist. Having missed several rehearsals, the group nevertheless presented a satisfactory performance at the annual Music Night. Members are now working diligently in order to better represent themselves at Graduation.

ART

Under the supervision of Miss Enid Holmberg, the students of Charlton worked diligently and enthusiastically to contribute to the Art Exhibit which was held May 13. The art classes tried their hand at finger painting, water-color, charcoal sketches, and designing Christmas wrapping and wall paper. The students also made snowflakes and three dimensional cut-out pictures. One highlight of the year was the making of block-printed, painted, or stenciled Christmas cards, to be used personally by the students.
